MR. WATNE WILSON'S ENTERPRISE.

To understand what Mr. Wilson purposes in arranging a series of concerts at this place, it will be well to put the enquiry, why is it so rare a thing to have first-class entertainments in Clarksville? We suppose it is sufficiently clear that artists of high renown are not going to visit any place unless they can make it pay to do so. For instance, if it were desired to bring to Clarksville such a company as that which is to play here next week, it would not pay them to come here from Boston for less than a guaranteed remuneration of from espected mother of Dr. McCauley, 18 $1,000 to $1,500, which we know would not be forthcoming. But this is on the supposition that the engagement was for Clarksville alone. But suppose that the party making the engagement could arrange for their visiting a circuit of ten or twelve places within easy distance of each other, it is obvious that they could do so at a much smaller remuneration from each place than if they were to play at one place alone and then return to

Now this is exactly what Mr. Wil son is doing; he is establishing a cirglad to have his friends call and see cuit for the whole of which he engages each of the companies which he proposes to bring here. The circuit, according to his present expectations, is to consist of Hot Springs, Pine Bluff and Little Rock in Arkansas; Memphis, Jackson, Clarksville, Nashville, Columbia and Pulaski in Tennessee, and Huntsville, Alabama. Mr. Wilson's commencement in business of this sort was in his capacity as secretary and business manager of the Mozart Conservatory of music at Memphis, where he was manager of the celebrated musical festivals of 1882 and 1883, conducted by Theodore Gallatin Examiner :- Rev. No, no, they were not ashamed, Brother Meecham, they didn't mention the Clarksville demonstration simply because they didn't care to dampen your Democratic ardor in the midst of your little jollification. The boys say, however, INSURANCE COMPANIES.

Not long since a local agent, of modest mien and bearing, representing some of these modest corporaplan, handed me a list bearing the names of several hundred fraternal, or mutual benefit, societies that had or mutual benefit, societies that had years or months, then died for want of breath, or funds, or members, or good management; at all events they all diled after a brief struggle against the old line regulars; at least these old line regulars seem to make it a struggle from the way they fight these little insignificant societies. Now I do not pretend to deny one word contained in these numerous circulars, but I want to see if the said Agt. of m. m. will deny this, if he does he can win a little money on it easier than he could on Cleveland's election. I say that ninety years ago there were over fifty friendly mutual benefit societies in England that were then over 100 years old, and that about 70 years ago there were not less than 10,000 of them, Of course many have died and many more will die, for their membership is in many cases too small, but the question arises why can not these associations live in America as they do in England, and even in Germany? Now America is an infant in years when compared to these other nations, and a great many more will therefore fail and die here than die there, but when they attain the proportions of the K. of H., why may they not live? In England they are heartily encouraged by Parliament, laws being passed in the reigns of George III and Victoria for their especial protection and encouragement, declaring that they "promoted the happiness of individuals and at the same time diminished the public burdens." If the old line Co's, will only wait a little longer they will see that America is not behind England in finding out the cheapest
